BITTER COLD.

Severe Weather Throughout the East, West and South.

Unprecedented Cold in Several Southern States—Railroad Traffic and General Business Partly Suspended.

Distressing Death of Two Children from Cold at New Albany, Indiana, etc.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 29.—Four and a half inches of snow, the heaviest on record in this section, fell this morning; thermometer at 4 P. M. 29 degrees and growing colder.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 29.—The snow storm here is the heaviest and most severe for 20 years. Snow is now 15 inches deep and it is still snowing.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.—Mercury 20; turning colder.

VICKSBURG, Dec. 29.—Inch and a half of snow.

SHREVEPORT, Dec. 29.—Thermometer 9; business most entirely suspended on account of intense cold.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Snow storm prevailed all day and along adjacent coasts.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 29.—Heaviest fall of snow since 1857; commenced at 4 A. M.; continued five hours; very cold to-night.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 29.—Heavy fall of snow here; Thermometer 14 above zero.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 29.—Weather coldest for years. At 10 o'clock to-night the mercury indicated six above zero, and it is getting colder. Snow fell continuously for 24 hours up to 7 this evening.

LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 29.—Weather intensely cold; river full of ice.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Snow commenced falling here during last night, has been falling all day and is now 14 inches deep. The river to-day is frozen over from shore to shore and the freeze was reported to extend below Quantico.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec 29.—Snow began falling at daybreak and continued until 2 P. M., when it was an inch deep. Afterwards the thermometer fell rapidly and it was 8 degrees below freezing point.

Snow fell 14 inches at Dallas, 8 at Gastonia, N. C., and 10 at Yorkville S. C.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 29.—Navigation above here is closed. It has been extremely cold all day; thermometer below zero, and on hill tops, 15 below; sky clear; trains late.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—This morning mercury stood 15 deg. below, wind 24 miles, now moderating and mercury 5 below. It is the coldest day for several years; navigation closed.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29.—At 7 o'clock thermometer 20 degrees below zero—at 9 o'clock to-night the mercury stands at zero.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—Only two as cold days in 10 years; 8¾ below.

ATCHISON, Ks., Dec. 29.—The coldest day for years; 18 to 20 below; railroads blocked by snow; all trains late; teams crossing the Missouri on ice.

SHERMAN, Tex., Dec. 29.—Five degrees below zero.

BUFFALO, Dec. 29.—A snow storm which set in yesterday noon continued with unusual severity throughout, accompanied by strong winds, till to-day. Considerable snow fell. The thermometer indicated zero nearly all day yesterday, and to-day 4 below. On the Lake Shore road the storm extends to Hamburg station, about 12 miles from the city. Trains are running irregularly with from two to three engines each.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Eight inches of snow.

Cold Weather Continues in the West.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Cold weather continues. At dawn this morning the mercury was at 19 to 22 in the city. At 8 o'clock it was 16 below. Here and at other points in the northwest it stood as follows: Detroit 11, Milwaukee 19, Winona 15, St. Paul 9, Dubuque 22, Peoria 18, Davenport 14, Keokuk 15, Des Moines 12, all below zero. The sky is clear and wind moderate. The prospects now are for a gradually rising temperature. Trains are usually impeded somewhat, but there are no accidents.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The mercury has been rising all the afternoon, and at midnight had reached zero with chances favoring milder weather to-morrow. Light snow is flying at present. Advices indicate warmer weather west of here and colder weather east. The cold spell has been more severe and lasting than any for eight years, but has been singularly free from casualties. Railroad trains are arriving quite late on all the roads, in some cases being six hours behind time. Considerable difficulty is experienced in handling freight and live stock, so that receipts have materially decreased at stock yards.

Bitter Cold at Deadwood.

DEADWOOD, Dec. 29.—Weather throughout the hills for the past week has been extremely cold, the thermometer ranging from 5 to 30 degrees below zero, accompanied by considerable snow and high winds. Considerable damage and suffering among stock is reported north of the hills and it is rumored that several teamsters were frozen to death, but nothing authentic is received. Stages are all laid up and way stations' mails badly delayed. Little business of any kind is being done. The weather is now moderating.

Children Frozen to Death.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Dec. 29.—Twin children, three months old, of Wm. and Fannie Johnson, froze to death to-day. The parents were poor and had no fuel, and the mother was unable to keep them warm while the father was out hunting work. The neighbors did not know of the destitution of the family.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

French Frigate.

TOULON, Dec. 29.—The French iron clad frigate Richelieu, took fire last night and finally sank. Several of the crew were injured.

A Chinese-Russian War Imminent.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Times says there is something like a panic in English political circles over the threatened war between Russia and China. The failure to settle the Kuldja dispute, the responsibility for which clearly rests with the government at St. Petersburg, gives color to the suspicion that Russia has sought occasion to quarrel with China for the purpose of provoking a war of conquest, and that the ultimate result of the impending disturbance will be the subjugation of the Chinese, and the opening of a Russian highway across the celestial kingdom to the waters of the Chinese sea. English newspapers bristle with descriptions of Russian naval vessels now on the way to the coasts of China and Japan. The whole array is said to be a powerful fleet armed with new rifle guns of force and range as yet unmatched in naval warfare.

Funeral of George Eliot.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The remains of George Eliot were buried to-day. Many friends were present in a pouring rain at Highgate cemetery.

Falling of a Church Roof.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Seven persons were killed outright and fully fifty injured, some seriously and perhaps fatally, by the fall of the roof of a church in Saillagat during the Christmas services.

Floods in France.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Floods in the north and northwest of France continue. Some lives have been lost and great damage done to property.

Explosion

NICTOROSIREFF, Dec. 29.—The boiler of the admiralty boiler works burst to-day. Three killed and 10 injured.

Infantry for South Africa.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—One thousand two hundred infantry will go to Cape Town to augment the 97th foot, which is proceeding thither from Gibraltar.

South Africa.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—500 Boers are watching Newcastle for the purpose of waylaying re-enforcements. The republic was to be proclaimed at Utrecht on the 20th. Loyal fugitives are pouring into Durbane. The government has proclaimed martial law there, Paul Kruger, rebel leader, is at Potchefstroom. Nearly all inhabitants of the town are prisoners, and the Boers have looted all shops.

Major Clark and twenty-five men surrendered to Boers at Potchefstroom, after forty eight hours' fighting. Large forces of insurgents are advancing on Utrecht. The Boers have taken Derby. At Utrecht all persons refusing to join the insurgents have been shot. English traders' stores have been looted at Potchefstroom. Only 120 British troops hold the campaign there. Their position is extremely critical.

Eastern Affairs.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 29.—The Albanian league has summoned all males over eighteen years of age to arms in every district in northern Albania. A great gathering at Jacova has just approved of the war with Montenegro, and has decided to send two nobles to Cettinje to demand the evacuation of Dulcigno. If Prince Nikita refuses, envoys are instructed to declare war on behalf of Albania.

The menacing attitude of Greece is causing the porte to take precautions. Two ironclads have sailed for the archipelago, and fortifications of the Dardanelles are being strengthened.

A COLOSSAL DEMAND.

The Sioux Reiterate their Demand for $7,000,000 for a Railroad Right Through their Reservation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Two separate conferences were held to-day at the interior department before Secretary Schurz, between the Cheyenne river and Lower Brule Sioux delegations and representatives of the Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroads in regard to obtaining right of way for continuation of these two lines of railway through the Sioux reservation. In the forenoon a conference was held with the Cheyenne river delegation, and Four Bears at the outset renewed his proposal of yesterday by asking $7,000,000 for the necessary lands. Secretary Schurz stated that the railroad offered to pay nearly $5 per acre for the necessary strip of land which he said was nearly four times as much as the government obtained for wild lands. He endeavored to point out to them the advantage which would result from having railroads built through their reservation, owing to the fact that it would bring their crops nearer to market and thus enhance the value of their land adjoining the road. If they wanted to be civilized, railroads were great civilizing agencies. Rattling Ribbon wanted to know whether they could or could not get the price asked, when Secretary Schurz informed them that they could not, and added that he thought the Indians did not know how much $7,000,000 dollars was, or they would not be so foolish as to ask such a price. Rattling Ribbon concluded his talk by remarking that "we must talk it over slowly," and added that they would go home and talk with their people here, including government officers and Secretary Schurz, urging them to sign a treaty with the railroads for right of way through their reservation. Secretary Schurz was very impatient and imperious yesterday and lost no opportunity for making a good impression and getting what was wanted. Their old agent, Dougherty, to-day urged them of the importance of signing, but they said they were being hardly crowded in this matter and wanted time to consider. The secretary notified them that to-morrow meeting would be their last chance. If they wanted to sign an agreement then that would end it.

The Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Wheat, strong and higher; 95¾c and 96c cash; 96¾c bid for January; 97⅝c February.

THE IRISH STATE TRIALS.

Second Day—Address of the Prosecutor Before the Court.

DUBLIN, Dec. 29.—Parnell and several other traversers were not present at the opening of the trials to-day. The counsel denounced the land league proceedings as a capital plan for reducing society to original chaos and communism. He particularly denounced Brennan, Boyton, Gordon, Sullivan and Nally as seeking pecuniary gain. He dealt with the violent speeches of Nally, Parnell and Dillon, severely scoring them for inciting murder. He cited passages from the speeches of two members of Parliament, and quoted amidst a general laugh from the speech of Biggar, who said that he did not recommend the shooting of landlords because wrong ones had been sometimes shot. After quoting Harris' recommendation to the peasantry to emulate the example of the French in 1793, he said in a word that the land league is founded upon a basis of sedition and treason. Parnell, who was given to expressing his opinions moderately, had himself declared that either landlords or people must go, and it would be for the people to decide which. The court then adjourned at 2:30 P. M., because the attorney general was fatigued. Parnell was loudly cheered on leaving the court.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Michael and William Burke and John Hanberry have been arrested at Clonbur on a charge of complicity in the murder of Lord Mountmorris.

A monster land meeting was to have been held to-day in Clare, but it was prohibited by the authorities. A thousand persons assembled, but were quietly dispersed by the police.

Still More Troops to be Sent to Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Standard claims that a further dispatch of troops to Ireland is probable. The admiralty request the war office to arrange for the relief of marines on service in Ireland, as detention of so many marines there causes great inconvenience to the navy.

The Situation at Dublin.

DUBLIN, Dec. 29.—Military authorities are adopting extraordinary precautions, and the extensive character of their arrangements appears to indicate grave apprehensions of imminent danger. All troops are confined to their barracks. Guard pickets have been augmented, and intrenching tools and lanterns have been served out for the use of patrols in the event of gas being cut off from any of the barracks. There are now here 250 officers, 6000 men, 1000 horses and 16 guns, the flower of the British army, besides strong bodies of constabulary. Magisterial investigation is going on at Limerick into the conduct of a corporal of the army who was arrested for illegal drilling.

STUPENDOUS FIGURES.

Statement of the Enormous Business done at the New York Clearing House during the Past Year.

NEW YORK, Dec 29.—To-morrow's Public will have an article showing that clearing house exchanges at New York for the past year were not only larger than ever before, but much larger than those of London or any city in the world. The Public says: There is one moderate sized room in New York in which the payments made during the past year have greatly exceeded the entire amount received and the entire amount expended by the United States government from its first establishment down to this time. The aggregate receipts of the United States treasury on all accounts, loans included, have been $18,570,343,647. The aggregate payments, including all redemption of notes and bonds, have been $18,334,752,201; but the amount paid in the clearing house by exchanges alone since Jan. 1, 1880, is $38,044,240,578, and the balances paid during the same time amount to $1,561,200,000. The largest transactions ever known before in a single year were those of 1869 when a third of the exchanges probably was due to speculation in gold. The exchanges then were $37,407,018,027, and the balance $1,120,318,308. For the first time that record has been exceeded, the largest transaction ever made in any year through the London clearing house, were £6,013,298,000 in 1874-5, equal to about $30,063,495,000, hence the payment made in 1880 in the room where Mr. Camp has charge, are the largest ever made during any year in any establishment on earth. The exchanges in all the other cities in this country during the year will be not far from $11,265,000,000, or less than one-third those at New York.

Clearing House Statements.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—To-morrow's Public will have its usual table of clearing house transactions for the past week with comparisons for the same week last year. It seems that only two cities show a decrease, Philadelphia and Milwaukee, the former of five and five-tenths per cent. and the latter twenty-four and six-tenths. All other towns have gained as follows: New York 37, Boston 15.8, Chicago 45.6, Cincinnati 51.3, San Francisco 15.3, St. Louis 15.4, New Orleans 12.8, Baltimore 18.2, Louisville 41, Pittsburg 9.1, Providence 11, Kansas City 60.2, Cleveland 17.3, Indianapolis 1.8, New Haven 19.2, Lowell 48.6 and Syracuse 28. These returns give evidence that the volume of business in nearly all parts of the country is much larger than ever before. There is little reason to apprehend any serious disaster when the tide of commerce is so full and strong. Speculative excitement has been mainly confined this season to a few products and has not been sufficiently extended to control the prices of those except for a short time. In the speculative markets disastrous reaction is possible. Elsewhere it does not now seem possible, nor are there indications that any reaction is near.

The "Great Eastern" as a Market Boat.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

The largest steamship ever put afloat has been an unfortunate one. She is too large for ordinary commercial purposes, but was considered about the right size for laying an Atlantic cable. A vessel of 20,000 tons cannot enter many of the great ports of the world. It is now definitely settled that the Great Eastern is going into the meat business, having been chartered for ten years to carry fresh meat from ports in Texas and South America to Great Britain. She will have room to take 15,000 carcasses of beeves, and to store them in refrigerators. The plan is to slaughter the cattle on board, and to land the beef in London and Liverpool at prices which will defy competition. It is expected that good beef will be laid down at those ports for about three pence per pound. The average price of beef cattle in Texas does not much exceed $14 a head—that is for steers four years old and upwards. In some parts of South America cattle can be bought from $5 to $10 a head. The Great Eastern, as a floating slaughtering house, may be a success. There is not a port in Texas which she could enter. But she would probably be supplied by tenders, and if she could transport beef on the scale proposed, might create a very remunerative business. She is a costly vessel to run, and her sea-going qualities have not met the expectations of the engineer who constructed her. A drove of 15,000 cattle would be considered a large one; and if driven to market on foot, would be required to be separated in lots of 1000 each. When the Great Eastern lays down 15,000 fresh carcasses of beef in Liverpool at three pence a pound, John Bull will have no occasion to complain of dear beef, although the quality of Texas beef will fall far short of that furnished by the Shorthorn cattle of England.

Goat Island Needed by the Government.

[Washington Special, Dec. 21.]

Recently the house passed a resolution calling on the secretary of war for information regarding Yerba Buena or Goat Island, San Francisco harbor. This information was sought to be used in connection with the consideration of the pending bill proposing to transfer the title of the island to San Francisco, to be disposed of under certain ordinances. In reply the secretary of war forwarded to the house to-day a long report of the officers of the engineer corps who were intrusted with the duty of discovering what disposition should be made of the island. The report, after describing the location and reciting the previous investigations and quoting the correspondence which passed with the same object in view, in former years, reiterates the oft repeated necessity of retaining and properly fitting it as a fortification and point of defense, being as such of vast importance to the United States and San Francisco. It says that even if the proposed act was intended to cede it to the city of San Francisco for its corporate use, which it does not, it would doubtless be for the best interests of the city for congress to refuse such cession, since the island occupies precisely the point which is necessary to be fortified to prevent the city's capture or destruction by an enemy's vessel, which in the thick weather and fogs that at some seasons prevail might run past the outer batteries.

The New State Dinner Service.

The state dinner set at the executive mansion was enlarged to-day by the addition of 300 pieces, making the whole number now nearly 1000. The set originally contracted for by the government with the house of Haviland & Co., details of which was arranged by Mrs. Hayes, was delivered last summer, and comprised all that was intended should form the state dinner service. The original designs were to illustrate the fauna and flora of the United States; but the president thought the set incomplete without some reference to the water, and so to-day in the midst of a driving snow storm, W. H. Briggs, representative of the house of Haviland & Co., arrived with two large casks direct from Limoges, France, and completed the order with fish, game and dinner platters, salad, oyster and Indian plates, and individual butter plates, sauce boats, ice cream trays and plates, the latter in the form of a Canadian snow shoe, which will be, the president remarked, a perpetual reminder of a Canadian prophet's prediction of 11 feet of snow. The set is in the most complete and costly ornamental of any in the United States, and is only excelled in value by services of gold and silver owned by some of the European potentates. It will be used entire at a dinner to be given by the president next week to members of the diplomatic corps.

The Missouri Senatorship.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—A Times' St. Louis special says: The supporters of Cockrell for re-election to the senate are weakening, and there is a strong movement to send to the senate General Thomas T. Crittenden, a staunch union man during the war. Governor-elect West's recent attack on John Brown injured Cockrell's cause greatly, for, strange as it may seem, the rebel yell is growing very unpopular in this state. The St. Louis delegation will solidly oppose Cockrell.

Trichina and the Pork Trade.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—The sale of pork in a local way is greatly affected by some recent fatal cases of trichina. Physicians agree, however, there is no cause for alarm if only pork be cooked thoroughly.

Chicken Thief Killed.

STOCKTON, Dec. 29.—Michael Sheridan, who keeps a chicken ranch near the 5-mile house, on the lower Sacramento road, caught a stranger in the act of robbing his chicken house at a late hour Tuesday night, and shot him dead. A coroner's inquest was held to-day and a verdict of justifiable homicide rendered. This morning Sheridan came into the city and surrendered himself to the sheriff. His examination is set for to-morrow.

Our Albany correspondent informs us that a grand time was had in that city on Monday evening last on occasion of the combined installation of officers in St. John Lodge No. 62, and Corinthian Lodge No. 17, A. F. & A. M. In the first named lodge the following officers were duly installed: D. P. Mason, W. M.; Geo. Humphrey, S. W.; Geo. E. Chamberlain, J. W.; Thos. Monteith, treasurer; D. Mansfield, secretary; L. Bilyeu, S. D.; C. Marshall, J. D.; Thos. Froman, S. S.; C. E. Wolverton, J. S.;—Watson, tyler. The following named persons were installed as officers in Corinthian lodge, No. 17: Eugene Buchanan, W. M.; E. W. Langdon, S. W.; N. Baum, J. W.; John Briggs, treasurer; Robt. A. Foster, secretary; L. Senders, S. D.; Edward Baum, J. D.; David Froman, S. S.; W. R. Graham, tyler. During the exercises excellent music was furnished by the glee club. An able address was delivered by Mr. George Humphrey; subject, "Symbolism of Masonry." At the close of the exercises at the hall the master-elect of St. John's lodge presented their retiring master, Mr. George Humphrey, with a handsome copy of the holy scriptures, which was gratefully acknowledged by the recipient. The evening closed with a grand supper at the Revere house, where nearly a hundred persons sat down to the bountiful repast.

IN MEMORIAM

At a regular communication of Junction City Lodge No. 58, A. F. and A. M., held in their hall Dec. 27th, A. D. 1880, A. L. 5880, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Architect of the universe to remove from our midst our late friend and brother, Andrew J. Richard, who departed this life December 4th, 1880, aged 28 years; and

WHEREAS, It is but just that a fitting recognition of his many virtues should be held in remembrance, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed, to say that in regretting his removal, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, That in the death of our lamented brother, this lodge mourns the loss of one, who, though just entering upon the great arena of life, bid fair to be a good man, a useful citizen, a kind and dutiful son, and an active member of the fraternity.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to him, who orders all things for the best and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved, That this lodge, will manifest its regard for the memory of the deceased and its sympathy with the bereaved, by wearing the usual badge of mourning for thirty days

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Lodge and a copy thereof be transmitted to the family of our deceased brother and to each of the papers, viz.: The Portland OREGONIAN and Eugene City Guard.

Counting the Electoral Vote.

[Washington Special, Dec. 22.]

Senator Edmunds' remark at the close of Senator Morgan's speech against allowing the president of the senate to count the electoral vote to-day caused considerable comment. Edmunds is known never to speak lightly or without reflection. His dogmatic assertion, therefore, has set the democrats to thinking. He declares that when the time comes to count the electoral vote it would be counted, whether the house should participate or not, and if, as all believed, it should be found that Garfield and Arthur had been lawfully elected, they would be so declared. The question raised is, "Suppose the house refuses to meet with the senate, or ask the senate to meet with them, and the president of the senate declares Garfield and Arthur president and vice president? While they will undoubtedly be so de facto, there will be one immemorial precedent that has not been observed, declaration will not appear upon the records of the house, and the next congress cannot amend the records of its predecessor.

The city of Weston has a debt of $670 10. This debt arises principally from the amount contributed by the city toward paying for the brick work on the new city hall, built on the grounds donated for that purpose by the Harmison heirs. The contract for the wood work on the hall is not yet completed, owing to the inclement weather. The building is 70x30 feet and two stories high. The revenue of Weston during the past year was $633 01. Sixty per cent. of that amount was paid for liquor license, and 27 per cent. from fines. No tax was levied for city purposes during the past year, but it will be necessary to assess the city for the debt already incurred, and the balance, which will accrue on the completion of the contract for the wood work on the city hall.

The city council of Walla Walla, have passed an ordinance requiring the houses to be numbered. The plan adopted is to commence on Main street and number east and west, and at Second street and number north and south allowing 100 numbers for each block.

The county officers of King county have been required by the commissioners to give bonds in the following sums: G. D. Hill, treasurer, $50,000; S. C. Harris, county auditor, $10,000; I. M. Hall, judge of probate, $10,000; L. V. Wyckoff, sheriff, $10,000; E. Bryan, assessor, $8000; E. S. Ingraham, school superintendent, $1000.

During last week the land office of Walla Walla has been besieged by parties who are making applications to purchase lands of the N. P. R. R. Co., for $2 60 per acre. The only thing that troubles us is that we have not got $260,000 with which to purchase 100,000 acres of this land.

Idaho.

Lewiston Teller: "News reached this city on Monday night that three men named respectively Vanburen, McHale and Christie, last week started across the Florence mountain for Slate creek. Vanburen started first and two or three days in advance. He lost his way in the snow and wandered down the side of the mountain and reached about six miles above the Slate creek house, and being bewildered and fatigued he there froze to death. The others started afterwards, knowing that Vanburen had left before them, and on the way down the mountain discovered traces of some one leaving the accustomed route and taking down the mountain side, and on arriving at the Slate creek house learned that Vanburen had not arrived, and a party soon started out in search and found the body up Slate creek as above described. McHale and Christie had their hands frozen, but how badly we did not learn.

Idaho Statesman: A. L. Rinearson has just completed the survey of a ditch in the Payette valley for Gov. Wm. Stewart. The ditch is taken from the slough near the stage station, 3½ miles above Stewart's house, and runs towards the foothills down the valley, and will cover 700 acres of Mr. Stewart's land when it reaches seven miles, and is intended to be carried on down the valley and eventually cover 20,000 acres. He will record or claim 20,000 inches of water, and construct the ditch this coming spring four feet on the bottom, with suitable grade on the sides, sufficiently large to carry 1500 or 2000 inches of water, and will enlarge it to the capacity of 20,000 inches as fast as the land is settled along the ditch. The ditch will cover a rich body of land for 12 or 15 miles, and will afford a settlement of more than 1000 inhabitants. People on the Payette are much interested in the settlement of the valley, and find the only drawback is in bringing water on to the large areas of good arable land. There will be another ditch taken out of the Payette, near Emmettsville, and one taken out below Stewart's place, this coming season.

THE GRANT CUP.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF IT?

During Gen. Grant's visit to Portland in October, 1879, a cup was offered by the "Committee on Regatta," as a prize to the crew that should win a four-oared race, to be rowed over the usual course to the foot of Ross Island and return. This cup was to be held by the winning crew, subject to challenge, for three successive years. At that time, there were but two four-oared crews known to boating circles, and no little interest was manifested as to their respective merits. These crews were "amateurs," and it was generally understood that the contest would be confined to them alone. And in fact, one of the committee subsequently admitted that, in conversation with one of his associates, it was understood that the cup was intended "solely" for "amateurs." And so, the crew of the Portland Rowing Association, having defeated the crew of the Willamette Rowing Club, was awarded the cup. On the 1st of August last, however, that being the day for the 2nd race, a crew calling itself the "Maple Leaf," put in an appearance, and insisted on taking part in the contest, notwithstanding the fact that both the Willamette and the P. R. A. previously and at the time, entered a protest against them, and positively refused to participate, on the ground that one of the Maple Leaf crew being known as a professional, and having a record as such, a contest with the latter crew, according to the rules of rowing, would render the former crews likewise professionals, and thus exclude them, in future, from all amateur races. The Maple Leaf crew, thereupon, pulled over the course alone, and demanded the cup, which the P. R. A. refused to deliver, but returned it to the committee, with an informal statement of the case, supposing that, at the proper time, they would be summoned before the committee for a hearing. Such a summons, however, was never received; and so the matter was allowed to drop.

But the question arises what has become of the Grant cup? All interested in boating would like to know. Rumor says it was last seen in the possession of a certain quartette, who had converted it into a beer mug, and were making merry over the refrain, "When nothing else is near, sir, we'll take a noggin of beer, sir." Will the regatta committee arise and explain?

ASTORIA NEWS.

Sale of the Schooner Courser—Ship Edwin Reed—Christmas Festivities—Masquerade Ball—Masonic.

[OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

ASTORIA, Dec. 28, 1880.

The three-masted schooner Courser was sold at auction to-day in accordance with a decree from the U. S. district court. The sale was well attended and spirited. Judge Strong of Portland made the first bid at $3000 which was quickly followed by one of $5000 from Capt. Forbes, which Joseph Hume soon raised to $10,000. Each bid was now cautiously raised $500 at a time until Capt. Trask reached the sum of $15,000, when M. P. Callender, of Knappton mills, raised him $1,000 at a jump, by a bid of $16,500. The bidders were now reduced to two, Mr. Callender and Trask, and the schooner was finally knocked down to the latter at $18,000. It will take $2000 to put the schooner in a staunch seaworthy condition, but as she is said to be the best coaster afloat on the Pacific, having capacity of 550,000 feet of lumber, those who know say the captain has secured a bargain even at $20,000.

Word was brought to town on Saturday evening that the bark Edwin Reed, lying at Baker's bay, had sprung a leak and that grave apprehensions were felt for the safety of the ship and cargo. On Sunday morning Mr. Wm. McCabe, of the firm of Brown & McCabe, stevedores, who had finished loading the vessel on Thursday, knowing that Capt. Gilmore was absent from his ship, settling up his business in Portland, voluntarily went down with men to see if he could render any assistance. Upon his arrival he found the ship had thirteen inches of water in her hold and had been making water faster than the pumps could reduce it.

The mate was of the opinion that the vessel had sprung a leak near the stern post. By a careful examination McCabe discovered that with every wave that struck her starboard side, the water was rushing in between the ceiling and outer planking. Removing a portion of the cargo, he proceeded to tear away the ceiling near the closet waste pipe and soon ascertained that the sole cause of the leak was a large hole in the waste pipe, gnawed through by rats in their efforts to obtain a supply of fresh drinking water. The cause happily discovered the remedy was soon effectually applied and before Capt. Ingersol arrived to hold a survey all danger was passed and the ship's hold free of water. It was most fortunate that the sagacious rodents had completed their work and caused the damage, before the ship had put to sea, otherwise the result might have been most serious.

Christmas festivities have been the order of the day in Astoria. Notwithstanding a boisterous and stormy Christmas eve the annual gathering and Christmas tree parties of the Presbyterian and Episcopal Sabbath school children were well attended, and the visit of bountiful Santa Claus hugely enjoyed by them.

On the same evening an elaborate masquerade entertainment was gotten up by the Rescue jubilee troupe, composed of members of Rescue Engine Co. No. 2. It was largely attended and the various characters represented well sustained and elegantly costumed, but so numerous that to individualize would occupy too much of the valuable space of THE OREGONIAN.

On the evening of St. John's day, 27th inst., the newly elected officers of Temple Lodge No. 7, F. & A. M. were publicly installed by Past Master I. W. Case. The spacious lodge room was crowded and a talented choir sang the installation odes and discoursed other beautiful music to an appreciative audience. After these exercises the craftsmen invited their guests to a complimentary ball at Liberty hall, which is said to have been the ball of the season. Last, but not least, this evening the Young Men's Western band of this city Mr. D. A. McIntosh leader, assisted by Prof. A. L. Francis of Portland and the leading musical talent of Astoria, gave a successful and most enjoyable vocal and instrumental concert. This band is composed entirely of young Astorians, and though but comparatively recently organized, by faithful practice they have attained to a great degree of proficiency and are a credit to this town.

NEWS NOTES FROM EUGENE.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

EUGENE CITY, Dec. 29, 1880.

The Christmas holidays passed off very quietly, there was a grand ball given under the auspices of the Eugene social dance club, and a Christmas tree at the Episcopal and Cumberland Presbyterian churches. Notwithstanding times are hard and money scarce, a goodly number of presents were purchased and presented. The most costly and beautiful present we have had the pleasure of seeing is the cabinet grand piano purchased by Mr. S. B. Dorris, and presented to his wife. This instrument was secured through Crain Bros. agency, and is the best and most expensive instrument in Lane county.

It is to be hoped that our citizens will second the efforts made by Major Gillespie to obtain an appropriation of $1500 for the surveying of the mouth of the Siuslaw river, by calling the attention and aid of our representatives towards this matter. It is also to be hoped that our citizens will by some means manage to have a wagon road opened up to the coast next spring, as there is no project that we know of that would cost as little and be of such great benefit to our citizens. The sea coast at the mouth of the Siuslaw river would be an excellent summer resort for our people and would bring us communication with a precinct of our county which we cannot now reach unless we go by way of Coos bay. Let a movement be made towards obtaining means to open up a wagon road to the coast, then undoubtedly the families living on the Siuslaw river will lend a helping hand towards completing this much needed improvement.

THRUSDAY MORNING DEC 30 1880

"SPELLING REFORM AND WRITING FOR THE PRESS

THE OREGONIAN is often asked to lend its aid to introduction of a new system of spelling based on fonografic principles. Sometimes it receives communications written in part in the style which such system is supposed to require. In every case we believe these articles have gone to the waste basket for we decline to print words spelled in an ignorant or affected manner, and have no time to go over and change the writing and punctuation of articles produced either with slovenly neglect or with studied effort to depart from the ordinary methods. The English language gets many curses for its irregular and arbitrary forms, but such objurgations have always appeared to us to come from superficial people who might well enough be called the pedants of a new and awkward sciolism. Of course yes we are moved to say that we have no mission to reform the methods of writing English words. The usage of recognized authorities as the great writers and lexicographers, is good enough for plain people and so we prefer Professor Noah Webster or Professor Joseph Worcester, to Professor Josh Billings. Let us add one word more. Every editor of long experience has probably observed that supposed scholars who have a hobby of "spelling reform" not unfrequently spell words phonetically because they do not know any better. Many a contribution goes into the waste basket because of such ignorance, negligence or affectation. Vile punctuation is another grievous fault. When an article is received, if the first page or two contains a few words of "reformed" spelling, or if the contributor punctuates with dashes as many do or doesn't punctuate at all the entire manuscript is started at once, and with some fitting expression of impatient contempt on the road to the paper mill. No newspaper man has leisure to edit anybody's productions. Let us say further that no one has any business or right to send an article for publication unless he can write legibly, spell and punctuate correctly, put what he has to say in grammatical language, and make his article read in manuscript just as it ought to read in print. We limit this statement, however, to articles of speculation and opinion, since it often happens that persons who do not habitually write for the press may obtain valuable intelligence which they are willing to communicate. Contributions which furnish news are always gladly received by the newspapers, and if necessary are willingly rewritten. But when a writer has theories, speculations, dogmas or opinions to present, on any subject whatever, the first necessary and even indispensable condition to obtainment of a hearing is that his article be written, spelled and punctuated correctly. If he can't do this he should hold his peace and not absurdly expect an editor to put his article into proper shape for the press. No editor can spend time and labor on such productions. Yet we have known contributors who have supposed him to have nothing else to do, and who have been indignant at his neglect. Apart too from the matter of time, if an editor happens to have an hour's leisure, he can often find better authors, and hence more agreeable and profitable employment than that of correcting or rewriting crudely expressed opinions.

H. W. SHAMEFUL MENDICITY.

It was Richter, who, as his life drew near its close, looking back along the path over which that life had run, said: "I have made as much out of myself as could be made out of the stuff and no man could require more." As nearly as can be ascertained there is but one man in every four in the United States who works. By work we mean honorable exertion of hands or brain. At this moment there are large numbers of sturdy beggars in and about Portland. Beyond doubt dozens of our citizens who read these lines have been accosted within the last few weeks while passing along the streets by great strapping loafers no ashamed to solicit a quarter of a dollar on the plea of hunger. Perhaps they are hungry, but whose fault is it? Nobody's but their own. Their condition in every case is the consequence of improvidence or laziness. All say they can't get work. It is probable, indeed, that they can't get work to-day; but only moderate prudence and foresight would have given them a little means against an emergency. Man, says our great poet, is "made with large discourse, looking before and after." That is, he has this capacity, even though he often fails to make use of it. But he is less than a man if he does not, and nature, which will not be defrauded, makes him take the consequences. For poor children who beg there is a chance for sympathy, though every close observer knows that the habitual mendicity of children is a common form of imposition and fraud, covering the worthlessness of those who ought to support and protect them. But our stout, strapping, able-bodied adult male beggars ought to receive treatment which would tend constantly to discourage and repress the trade they pursue. Our cities and towns should not be an asylum for the improvident, the lazy, the unemployed. In the rural districts there is always work to be had if men will work faithfully and at wages that farmers can afford to pay. But this class will not, and farmers, if they try them, are soon glad to be rid of them. Whenever they earn a few dollars they hasten to town and spend it in idleness and dissipation, holding it disgraceful for a white man to work for such wages as farmers can afford to pay by the year. Most people who earn their living by their own industry are likely to conclude that there is not much need of expending sympathy upon able-bodied improvidence and laziness, even if it does sometimes profess to be hungry. Hunger, under such circumstances, is retribution. It is a just effort of nature to enforce the law of compenpensations.

We have by telegraph to-day confirmation of the recent rumor that China is about to engage in the ocean trade between her own ports and San Francisco. Four iron steamers adapted to this trade are now building on the Clyde for a Chinese merchant company which proposes to establish a passenger and freight line with weekly departures in competition with the Pacific Mail. Already we pay Englishmen with English ships to carry our grain to the world's markets, adding another charter rate for the long return sail, and now we shall pay Chinamen with foreign ships to bring us tea, rice and house servants. The English with their cheap free ships already beat us in every line in which they compete, and now China with similar advantages will do the same. Our system of "protection" enables even the Chinese to become our superiors on the ocean. We pay millions of dollars annually in foreign freights, rob our seamen of employment, drive the American flag from the ocean and compel the payment of high rates for transportation of our own products, all under the mediaeval and utterly exploded notion of "protection." The Chinese have sense enough to get ships built on the Clyde and will sail them at a profit while our laws forbid our citizens to buy ships of foreign build or to get ships built in foreign ports. We talk of the Chinese as an inferior race and yet they are not so walled up with ancient prejudice and the surviving follies of the unenlightened ages as we are.

At Cleveland a new method has been discovered of refining crude petroleum which it is asserted will revolutionize the whole business. By this process oil is refined to 300 degrees. It is claimed that this new high test oil can be produced at a cheaper rate than the best hitherto offered, because by the new process it is made with less waste. The prediction is made that this discovery will break the great monopoly enjoyed so long by the Standard Oil Company, out of which tens of millions of dollars have been made. The Chicago Tribune has in a long letter from Cleveland an account of the new process and what is claimed for it. It is covered by two new patents and unless reports are altogether misleading it will soon revolutionize the whole business.

The issue of THE OREGONIAN of Saturday January 1 will be the most complete and valuable newspaper that ever appeared in Oregon. It will [illegible] the statistical matter of the year and a large number of articles on the growth, progress and prospects of the Pacific northwest. The articles on the development of our railway system will be especially valuable while the commercial review of the year, the statistical exhibit of the growth of Portland and the local and general chronology will be complete. There will be a large extra demand for extra copies. Hence those who wish to make sure of supply should send their orders in by Friday at 6 P. M.

THE ESCAPED PRISONERS

CAUGHT 9 MILES FROM VANCOUVER.

They Remained in Portland Sunday Night, in Vancouver Monday and Tuesday, and fell into Sheriff Buchtel's Hands while Making for Kalama.

Lynch, Murphy and Johnson, who took leave of the hospitality of Jailer Terry McManus last Sunday to spend the holidays among friends in the suburbs, returned last night under escort and will receive New Year's calls next Saturday in the court-house; basement floor; apartments to the left; hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.; entrance at the north-east corner; no refreshments.

Their flight as related by Lynch to a representative of THE OREGONIAN, is almost admirable in boldness. "We struck out Main street," he said,—"me and Murphy and Johnson—as far as Ninth, then took over to Yamhill and out to Thirteenth. We cut across to the Cornell road, and got to 'The Cottage' about dark. After supper, we came up to the Gold Dust saloon, took a drink; then walked up to the Mount Hood saloon, laid around there a few minutes; come over to Front street and walked up to Jefferson. We passed Officers Hickey and Samson (Hunting but they didn't know us. We afterwards passed Sloan, who arrested us in the first place, and he didn't know us. We got a bottle of whisky and went to sleep in a barn on Front street somewhere about Jefferson, where there was two horses. We got up about daylight and went over to the Thompson House, corner of First and Jefferson, washed our faces, and then started for the Jefferson street ferry. As we were going down we saw Charley DuBois and another man driving up Jefferson street, but they did not know us. We crossed on the ferry and started up the railroad track a way, but took the road for Vancouver. We get there about 2 o'clock, went into a saloon and drank a quart of beer. I picked up THE OREGONIAN and read the account of the break. The descriptions were a little too close to suit me, so I went out and cut off my moustache. I didn't need it in my business just then. We went to the hotel, took supper and went to bed right away. Next morning we hung around town, but no one tackled us. We watched the Cascades boat which arrived about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Joe Day got off. As we was coming down street he saw us and dodged around the corner. We was just itchin' for him to say a word to us. We'd a give him the —— licking he ever got in his life. He had on an overcoat and we wanted that and we'd a took it if he'd a give us a chance, and we'd a took his revolver too. But he skulked away and never showed himself. We heard towards night that Buchtel was in town, so we struck out for Kalama. We slept in McConnell's barn about two miles from town, got breakfast at his house, and started out the road to Kalama. We got about nine miles from town when Simmons and Buchtel overtook us. We give up, and they brought us over."

"Where did you get that iron bar?" asked our representative.

"I carried it in with me in my shoe," replied Lynch with a merry twinkle. Davis, the forger, and Rawlins, the murderer, who occupied adjoining cages, rolled over and took a hearty laugh at the remark. [The bar is eighteen inches long, and weighs about eight pounds.]

Being convinced that the fugitives were in the neighborhood of Vancouver, Sheriff Buchtel, accompanied by Charles DuBois and constable Sam Simmons, went over on the afternoon boat. The two former being known to the fugitives remained on the boat until dark, while Simmons made a reconnoitre of the town. A drayman who knew Simmons and was also acquainted with Murphy volunteered to go with Simmons in search of the men, and they ransacked every barn in the neighborhood. It is thought that this same drayman informed the gang of the presence of the Portland officers, so that they could go out of town. Early in the morning Sheriff Buchtel ascertained that the men had taken the road to Kalama, and with Du Bois and Simmons started after them afoot. They met Mr. McConnell who told them that three men answering the descriptions of Lynch, Murphy and Johnson had slept in his barn the night before. The pursuers kept on with great haste, and soon discovered in the thin ice and snow which covered the road, tracks of three men. About six miles from Vancouver, they came to a farm house, where after much persuasion, and finally by threats, the sheriff procured two horses. Du Bois and Simmons kept pushing ahead on foot until overtaken by Buchtel and the farmer. Simmons mounted the latter's horse, much the better animal. They soon came in sight of the fugitives, and Simmons putting his horse to a run, came upon the men at a turn in the road before they knew that they were being pursued. The noise of their own walking on the cracking ice had drowned the sounds of the horses hoofs. The trio threw up their hands without waiting for such request. A few minutes after Buchtel arrived, and then Du Bois, puffing like a porpoise and nearly fagged out from his nine miles rapid tramp. He ornamented the wrists of the escaped prisoners with handcuffs, and they were then marched to Vancouver. They were brought to this city on the regular Cascades' boat.

CONTINUED COLD.

Boats above Celilo Tied up Last Night—River still Open Below The Dalles.

Weather east of the Cascades was not quite so cold yesterday as the day before, but cold enough to freeze the waters of the Columbia, and there is much running ice at Wallula and Umatilla. Boats made through connection, but all above Celilo were put into winter quarters last night. The Cascades boat will leave as usual this morning and will probably connect to The Dalles. The thermometer at Roseburg was up to 50 degrees at 8 o'clock last night, and it is just possible that we may get a "chinook" in time to prevent an ice blockade. Those who are annoyed at the prospects of a freeze can probably take some comfort in reading THE OREGONIAN'S weather dispatches from all over the east, west and south this morning. Following are telegrams from eastern Oregon:

1 P. M. REPORTS.

Blalocks—Weather cloudy; snowing very little; thermometer 21; no wind.

Umatilla—Cloudy and calm; thermometer 32; river falling; running ice.

Cascades—Cloudy; down stream wind; thermometer 25.

Dalles—It is moderating considerably along the line from last night; river full of slush ice at Wallula and Umatilla which is forming solid since wind stopped blowing; weather here now cloudy and calm; thermometer 30; some slush ice in the river here.

Celilo—Cloudy; light down breeze; river full of running ice, thermometer 26.

Wallula—Thermometer 23; light up stream wind; not snowing, but ice getting thicker.

5 P. M.

Celilo—Cloudy; light down stream breeze; ice running; thermometer 24.

Walla Walla—There is every indication of a hard freeze up; 10 inches of snow; thermometer 23 at 4 P. M., and going down.

Umatilla—Cloudy and calm; river full of running ice; thermometer 24.

Wallula—Cloudy; very little wind; river full of running ice; thermometer 22.

Cascades—Down stream wind; cloudy; no snow; thermometer 24.

Blalocks—Cloudy; calm; no snow; river full of running ice; thermometer 21.

Dalles—Cloudy; river rose ½ inch during last 24 hours; no ice in the river; thermometer 25.

EXAMINED AND EXONERATED.

The committee on ways and means to whom was referred the charges preferred against Mayor Thompson, by ex-Chief of Police Besser, has held several adjourned meetings. Tuesday afternoon the committee met and all the charges made by Besser were carefully and thoroughly examined. At close of the investigation the committee came to the conclusion that the charges were groundless, and were unanimous in their findings.

The following report was then written and signed, and will be presented to the council at its next meeting:

To the Hon. Mayor and Common Council: Gentlemen—We, your committee on ways and means, to whom was referred the charges of L. Besser against D. P. Thompson, beg leave to report that we have investigated said charges so far as related to the city taxes, and that said D. P. Thompson, in law, owed the $30,000 in question to Capt. A. P. Ankeny. The charge of L. Besser, to which he declined to swear, except in so far as relating to city taxes, we return herewith, also the sworn reply of D. P. Thompson to said charges.

W. H. ANDRUS,
HENRY WEBER,
Committee on Ways and Means.

OREGON STATE DIRECTORY.

A copy of the Oregon State Directory for the year 1881 has just been issued from the press. The book is certainly a credit to the compilers, the printers and the binders. Briefly stated, the contents of the work embrace a business directory of all important cities and towns in Oregon; a general directory of Portland and East Portland; leading business firms in Eastern Washington; abstract of the census of 1880, compared with that of 1870; also a vast amount of other matter, religious, educational, commercial and statistical.

J. K. Gill & Co. are the publishers of this directory. Mr. A. A. Bynon is the chief compiler. In this work he was efficiently assisted by H. M. Clinton, Rev. J. R. N. Bell, Dr. T. M. Wilcox, Dr. Walter Hyde and David Steel. Several months were occupied in the collection of the great mass of information contained in the directory, and in its compilation, classification and arrangement. Without exception this is the most complete state directory ever issued in Oregon. The work contains 728 pages, printed in neat type on handsome paper. The press work was executed at the publishing house of Himes the printer.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 30, 1880.

AARON BURR.

What Thurlow Weed and James Watson Webb Say of Him.

[New York Correspondence Indianapolis Journal.]

"You can almost remember the Hamilton-Burr duel?" I asked of Thurlow Weed.

"I do remember it," he said, "but only as a boy would remember an event which shocked the community. Everybody talked about it."

"Nobody was on Burr's side?"

"Hardly anybody at first, and fewer as time went on, till almost everybody loathed him. When I knew him best he was well advanced in years. He was one of the worst men that ever lived. He had no scruples whatever about betraying a woman, and he chose the loveliest in the land for his victims. About the time of his duel he had disgraceful intrigues with a dozen or twenty ladies at once in New York, Albany, New Haven, Providence, Boston, Baltimore, Richmond, and smaller towns between. Some of those were kept up for years, but most of the ladies had speedy successors. I speak of them as 'ladies,'—they were the wives of brilliant lawyers or wealthy merchants, or the young daughters of the fashionable old families. There was an agony of fear among these when the duel was fought, lest the guilty gallant should fall and their terrible secret be betrayed; and this fear deepened to consternation when he died at last. Many of the oldest families of New York, Pennsylvania and New England trembled then. And well they might."

"What could they have feared then, so many years after?" I inquired.

"Why, you see, it had been rumored around that Burr had never destroyed any letters from ladies. And this shows, better than anything else, his lack of any moral sense whatever,—for he refused to protect those whom he had grievously injured, when they could have been protected without a moment's thought."

"Did he actually keep all of those letters, Mr. Weed?"

"He did, probably, every one. He used to boast that he had never destroyed one. And with devilish method he had folded them all carefully, and filed them regularly in packages,—each lady's letters by themselves. When Burr died at last, Matthew L. Davis, about his only friend, who became his administrator, sent for me. I went over. There was nothing to administer but the expressions of tenderness which the scoundrel had cajoled from respectable women and filed away. There was the will which he made the day before his duel with Hamilton. In that he said to his daughter, Theodosia, his only legitimate child, then at sea: 'In a blue trunk in the attic you will find something to amuse, more to instruct, and still more to regret.' That blue trunk which he thus coolly bequeathed his only child, and that child a lovely daughter, contained the carefully treasured love letters—from a dozen women at a time—proofs of her father's depravity! Does not that show that Burr was without any moral sense whatever? Theodosia was swallowed up by the waves and never saw the blue trunk."

"Did you see the letters, Mr. Weed?"

"I was just about to say: We opened the blue trunk, which Davis had partly examined, and I shall never forget my astonishment and disgust at what I saw. It was nearly full of letters from women, filed in packages. We looked at the individual letters. Most of them had originally been signed with initials only, or oftener without any name, or some pet name; but Burr, with a malignity whose motive I cannot even yet understand, had written out each name in full. He seemed resolved that others should share his infamy. Some of the names belonged to the most honored families in the land,—to have revealed them would have been to cause terrible anguish, and, in several cases, probably the breaking up of families."

"Did you read many of them?"

"Not very many. I used to go over and look at them when I had a spare hour. They were strictly guarded by Davis. He was a queer man, but he had a high sense of personal honor. Why, Mordecai M. Noah offered Davis $20,000 for that blue trunk and its contents, but, of course, the offer was spurned and the insult resented."

"So the blue trunk's dangerous contents were burnt, I supposed," I said.

"Why, no, not all of them by any means. Matthew Davis, too, had his eccentricities, and one of his queer notions in regard to these captured love letters was that they should all be returned to the writers. That seemed to me to inflict needless pain, and I argued with him about it, but he said the writers would be better satisfied if they had a chance to destroy them themselves. Some of them were old ladies then—mothers and grandmothers—but Davis undertook the grim task of returning all the packages of letters by the hands of trusty friends. A good many he gave back himself. He gave me one of these delicate packages to deliver when I was going to Providence one day, but I told him I would see him hanged first. But I know that Gen. Scott did accept one of these packages from Matthew Davis, and returned it with his own hand to a lady high in society in Richmond. He told me so. I always wondered whether she thanked him or not, but I forgot to ask him. But think of the moral nature of a man capable of deliberately leaving all those letters to his own daughter as a legacy!"

"What sort of a looking man was Burr, Mr. Weed?"

"Quite a small man. Very graceful in movement and courteous in demeanor. A small hand and foot. Not spirited or dashing at all, but his manner was full of repose and his voice was soft and musical. He would strike one at first as being slightly effeminate, but he was not so; he was a bold, strong, capable man. In conversation—till the last ten years of his life—he was brilliant. But to return to the subject of his wickedness towards women: When he was in England he was greatly assisted and befriended by a learned professor of Oxford university, whose name I must not mention. In return for this friendship Burr ruined his wife. Six years afterwards Burr obtained a position for this professor in a New York college for obvious reasons, and when they came over to this city Burr also seduced their daughter, a lovely girl of seventeen, whose confidence he had won when she was a little girl during his visit to England. In due time the professor died, and Burr became a penniless outcast. Then this mother and daughter, instead of hating and spurning him, took him and supported him during his last years by keeping a boarding house down town. This was on the well known Reese place, on Broadway, just below Wall street. Here his food and very medicine were paid for by the two women on whom he had inflicted mortal injury fifteen years before. He had no sense of shame or of gratitude. He was almost universally hated during his last years, and was really an object of pity. I remember being on an Albany steamboat one night, and seeing a crouching form out on deck. I went out, and there was Burr in the cold. I asked him why he did not go in. He said he was not very cold, but we went in together. There was Gov. Lewis Morgan, whom I saluted. I noticed that they didn't speak, so I seated myself between them. Finally Burr rose and moved off. 'Don't you know Col. Burr?' I asked him. 'Yes,' he said, 'I know the d—d reptile!'"

JAMES WATSON WEBB ON BURR.

The same evening I found Gen. Webb at home again, and again playing whist—with only one dummy this time, for his youngest son, an artist of considerable talent, occupied the third seat. I apologized for the interruption and asked about John C. Hamilton's reception. "We did not go," he said; "we are not on speaking terms." And then he frankly told me why—but I don't want any of the Webbs and Hamiltons to fight any more duels; so I suppress the information.

"You want me to talk about Col. Burr," he said; "well, I knew him; he was a brave soldier in the Revolutionary war. He succeeded my father as aide on Gen. Putnam's staff after the battle of Bunker's Hill. Burr was a selfish scoundrel. I met him often during his last years. He used to urge Matthew L. Davis to write his (Burr's) life, but he added, 'only on one condition—you know what that is.' Davis turned to me and explained that Burr wouldn't permit his life to be written unless the biographer would agree to 'tell the truth about Washington,' by which Burr meant to abuse him and deny him any great qualities, either as a man, a soldier, or a statesman. Davis would never consent to this. 'I won't do it,' said he to Burr in my presence. 'Then you shan't write my life!' responded Burr. The fact is Burr never forgave Washington for refusing to appoint him minister to France in 1795, when his party in the senate unanimously recommended him for the distinguished place. Washington always disliked the brilliant New Yorker, whose various qualities were just the opposite of his own, and the feeling was naturally reciprocal. During the last year of his life, when he was 81, Burr withdrew the condition, but then he could not talk much, and Davis' materials were too meagre. 'Send for Webb and Verplank,' said Burr. We went to his bedside. 'You two write out all the questions you can think of about my life,' said Burr, 'and then come here and read them and I will answer them.' We did so, and the answers formed the basis of Davis' biography—which was very partial, like Parton's, and not half true.

"One day the Doctor told Burr he would not live till morning. Burr turned his eyes towards us and said: 'He's an infernal old fool. Open that bureau drawer.' It was opened. 'Do you see a letter on that box?' Verplank took up the dainty missive. 'It is from a lady,' said the dying man, 'and she says she will call on me to-morrow. Anybody who thinks I will die with such an appointment as that on hand doesn't know Col. Burr!'"

"How did Burr get a living at the last?" I asked him.

"He was supported by friends for years. He pretended to practice law, but he never practiced much. He had no sense of honor in money matters. He would borrow $50 on one corner and distribute it to anybody who wanted it on the next corner."

"What was Burr's hold on Blennerhassett?"

"Weed and others think it was the beautiful Mrs. Blennerhassett, but I think it was Burr's own power of fascination on men as well as on women. The expedition was merely a filibustering trip to grab Texas—the very thing that cost us so much money when we finally sent Sam Houston to do the same job."

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Dec. 29th.

It will be seen by dispatches that the English wheat market is lower all round. This does not affect our market because we have none just now to be affected. Not a single sale has been reported for several days, and we doubt if higher than $1 35 per cental could be secured. A typographical error made us say yesterday that a round lot of wheat offered to a local shipping firm at $1 46 has been declined, when we intended to say that the offer for sale was at $1 40 per cental.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

New York, Dec. 29.—Nothing was done at the wharves of vessels loading for San Francisco on account of a severe snow storm, which prevailed all day, thus preventing the Tam O'Shanter and Hagerstown from closing out, both vessels being nearly full. Otherwise there is nothing new in the market.

The merchandise market is exceedingly quiet.

Wheat—Inactive; exporters out of market.

Barley—Dull and not full.

Provisions—Neglected.

Rio Coffee—Quiet but market very strong.

Refined Sugars—Moderate demand; prices maintained.

Receipts—29,000 ctls wheat, 9000 qr sks flour; 275 ctls oats; 2750 sks potatoes; 3500 doz eggs.

Wheat—The market is steady at full prices. Immediate wants are being supplied. The demand is local and export. Among sales to-day were the following: 500 tons fair shipping to extra choice shipping, $1 43½@1 48¾; 15 tons good milling, $1 45. Among sales yesterday were the following: 100 tons choice to extra choice milling, $1 50. We quote as before.

Barley and Oats—Market is quiet but firm.

Potatoes—There is very little demand. Market is overstocked with common. Quote Early Rose, 50@60c.

Hides—Market shows no feature of striking interest. Quote as before.

Wool—Market is dull. Sellers are lowering their pretensions. Upon a careful estimate stocks are conceded to be: Oregon, 300,000 lbs; California, 900,000 lbs.

Hops—Market is dull and prices favor buyers. Quote as before.

Rice—China mixed. Market is quiet at $4 75; $4 80 asked.

Eggs—Choice fresh California. The market is not quite so firm. Receipts are larger. Quote, 35@35½c.

Butter—Choice fresh roll. Receipts are small. The market is firm with prices against buyers. Quote, 37½@40.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN
The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast,
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,
such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—No. 65 First street, between Oak and Pine. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.

All letters of professional business must be addressed to Dr. Paul M. Brenan & Co., Portland, Oregon.

45 Years Before the Public.
THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
CELEBRATED
FOR THE CURE OF
Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,
DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
